Tom Lynch Demonstration

With his uniquely styled landscape paintings, he strives for a level of excitement and drama that seems to push somewhere beyond what the environment naturally provides.

Hard to believe April is here, time seems to pass so quickly these days. It makes me realize how important it is to treasure each moment and stay in the "here and now" as much as possible. Painting is an activity which certainly helps me do that, although when I'm totally engrossed in the process time seems to be suspended. I can work on something for 3 hours and it seems like minutes, my guess is many of you can relate. Our right brain, which is where most of our creative energy originates, has a way of taking us out of our normal logical routines to another, more often than not, peaceful place. It's why I love to do it, even when it presents artistic challenges along the way. Research shows it's important to continue learning as we age, and painting is a great way to do it.

Our March meeting was great fun and Ed Hoag presented a very informative and interesting demonstration. The washes he creates with his airbrush techniques are phenomenal. Thank you Ed for a wonderful presentation and thank you also to all who provided snacks and helped set up the meeting space and refreshment table.

This month NVWS sponsors a workshop with internationally known master watercolorist Tom Lynch. I hope all who can have signed up for the class and everyone plans to attend his painting demonstration at our meeting on Wednesday, April 10th at 7:00 pm. It promises to be a great opportunity to learn new techniques to enhance your artistic creations.

Our Spring show is right around the corner and promises to be one of our best as Sylvia continues to be at the helm coordinating the event. Paintings need to be delivered on Saturday, March 30, 10 am-noon, and the reception is on Tuesday, April 9th at 6-8 pm at the Green Valley Library, so mark your calendars to plan to attend.

NVWS is a great organization and I'm proud to be associated with all of you. I'm also grateful for all of the support of our board members and committee chairs, without which, none of our activities would be possible. I encourage and invite all members to volunteer and get involved in the activities of this club at whatever level you are able. It's what keeps us ticking. Hope to see everyone at the April meeting, in the meantime keep those paints and brushes moving.

NVWS Critique Group

Tuesday, April 2nd, 10am - 12noon

If you haven't attended Bill Fravel's NVWS Critiques, now is the time. Meeting at Bill's home and in his studio is amazing. You will be surrounded with artwork and family treasures. Bring your paintings and receive valuable suggestions on how to "WOW" the judges. This April 2nd we will also have Dave Laurose demonstrate his paper stretcher. Dave is a local artist and businessman. The benefit of being able to stretch watercolor paper allows you to paint with lots of washes and not fight the ripples. Come and join in the fun.
